PUBLIC HEARING, 7:10
REGARDING AMENDING LOCAL LAW NO 10 OF 1996,

ARTICLE XIII, OF THE TOWN CODE, HISTORIC PRESERVATION

The Town Clerk read the Notice of Public Hearing as published in The Daily Gazette on May 9, 2005.

Town Historian John Scherer reviewed proposed legislation, noting the Historic Preservation Commission is an advisory board and has no power on its own; decisions are made by the Planning Board and Town Board. The Historic Preservation Commission can advise the Town Board of historic buildings to be placed on town register. Placement on the Town Register is strictly honorary and there are no restrictions. He reviewed the Conservation Easement law. The proposed legislation also refers to Historic Districts of which there are currently none in town. Mr. Scherer stated there would be no restrictions for people who own houses in the Historic Districts. The Commission is only asking to review and offer suggestions in order to maintain the rural and historic character of the hamlets. The Commission is not telling people they have to have a compatibility study. He reviewed proposed review for new construction in an Historic District. Mr. Scherer emphasized there are no restrictions with existing houses. The Historic Preservation Commission would make recommendations on new construction. A property owner must apply for a Certificate of Compatibility for new residential construction. Mr. Scherer said districts to be considered as historic would be Rexford, Vischer Ferry, Jonesville, Clifton Park Center, Grooms Corners, and Clifton Park Village.

Councilman Paolucci questioned review of additions to homes by Historic Preservation and Planning Board where, now, a resident would only have to get a building permit. He also questioned if there would there be fees associated with Planning Board review. Mr. Kemper said there would be fees if engineering review is required. Mr. Scherer said the legislation entitles the Planning Board and Historic Preservation Commission to make suggestions but the homeowner does not have to comply. After discussion, Mr. Scherer said it would be fine if the review was only by the Historic Preservation Commission.

Councilman Roth said the Board doesn't want to add extra burden to residents and people that currently live in an area that could be designated historic have to be comfortable with the legislation.

Supervisor Barrett explained a public hearing would be held when an Historic District is proposed.

Councilman Speckhard asked if a new purchaser of an existing building would also be covered and Mr. Scherer responded yes. Discussion ensued as to ownership and pre-existing buildings and subdivision of land for a single family home.

Mr. Scherer reported Vischer Ferry is an Historic District on the National Register of Historic Places.

Councilman Speckhard read a letter from Gail Winters, dated May 16, 2005, attached.

The public hearing was opened for comments from the audience at 7:30 p.m.

Paul Kitchen, 277 Sugar Hill Road, said from the previous discussions it is clear that the wording needs clarification. He said he is not opposed to Historic Preservation but is opposed to one that has the potential to overstep personal property rights. The proposed legislation adds extra barriers that taxpayers do not have to go through right now. He said compatibility is left up to the discretion of the Historic Preservation Commission. He asked where is it made clear that property in a Historic District would have no restrictions, noting this was clear in the 2003 draft and questioned why this language was removed. Mr. Kitchen said there is no mention if Historic Preservation Commission recommendations are binding, however the first draft of 2003 made it clear. He questioned why local historic districts are necessary since the opportunity is there for National Historic Districts. He stated property owners want to choose the look and style of what they prefer as homeowners not what they are told is compatible. Mr. Kitchen stated homeowners can make sound judgments on what might match the character of their homes. He questioned if the Town Board wants to extend more power to an unelected group and expressed concern regarding intentions of members of the Historic Preservation Commission in the future. Mr. Kitchen expressed concern that there is no mention of direct input from taxpayers who live in the proposed areas. He said the National Historic Preservation Act allows for people to be excluded from a National Historic District and questioned why the proposed legislation doesn't allow this. Regarding this last question, Supervisor Barrett responded this will be made clear in the legislation. Mr. Kitchen asked the Town Board to hear these concerns and amend the legislation by removing Historic Districts.

Liz Thackeray, 280 Sugar Hill Road, read a prepared statement, attached. She asked that protections be added to the legislation that she and her neighbors are asking for. She also expressed concern that term limits of members of the Historic Preservation Commission have been removed. (Clerk's note: proposed legislation allows three year term, deletes "for no more than two consecutive terms", and adds "may be reappointed for additional terms at the discretion of the Town Board".) She asked the Board to make sure they are not giving more power to unelected officials.

Isabel Prescott, Riverview Road, reviewed the history of the Conservation Easement law, noting it follows the Town of Perinton legislation and at that time it was decided to include historic buildings. She believes Clifton Park is the only community in New York State that includes historic buildings. She suggested concerned individuals be on the Historic Preservation Commission Board.

Diane Tracey, 271 Sugar Hill Road, stated she doesn't need anyone advising her about her home and doesn't want any special restrictions on her property.

Rainy Littman, Ferry Drive, Chairman of Historic Preservation Commission, said the original 2003 draft has been condensed and should have been more thoroughly read. She reported the Commission had the opportunity to apply to become a Local Certified Government but opted not to. She explained the reason the National Application of Landmark Status is not applied in the code is because the Historic Preservation Commission is operating off the National and State Code although loosened a bit to fit the concerns of the residents. The Certificate of Appropriateness only affects a building if it is on the landmark list, which is voluntary. She said the opting out mentioned by Mr. Kitchen is opting out of the Register program. She reviewed requirements for homes to be placed on the town's Historic Register. She said the Planning Board step was initially intended for new construction and additions to landmark buildings because of the demolition rate in town. She said the Historic Preservation Commission asks that the Building Department notify them of any structures over 100 years old. Ms. Littman stated if an Historic District is formed, the resident still has the option of opting out. She agreed some adjustments need to be made to the portion regarding the Planning Board and apologized for any concerns the proposed legislation has caused.

Mr. Scherer said he feels concerns can be resolved by having public hearings when Historic Districts are established.

Norman Goldman, London Square Drive, said the things that are being added to the proposed legislation are only advisory and doesn't see the need for a local law and that the town only needs to notify people that this advice is available.

Bill Engleman, Partridge Plateau, said he has not read the proposed legislation but supports the concept and efforts of historic preservation in Clifton Park which may need codifying. He supports a Certified Local Government Commission in town as people could benefit from grants. Mr. Engleman said people need to be aware of the types, scope and speed of demolition of historic buildings that is occurring in town and it is important for the Historic Commission and Town Historian to be made aware of proposed demolition. He said demolition should be a last resort. He suggested an inventory of historic structures to be shared by the Planning Board, Building Department, Historic Preservation Commission, Town Historian, and Town Board.

Supervisor Barrett said the Board can choose to modify what was presented tonight or not act on it at all but any significant changes to the proposed law would require another public hearing.

Mr. Kitchen said Mr. Goldman's point would make a more approachable situation for taxpayers and asked the Town Board to consider his comments. He said he would be willing to work with the Historic Preservation Commission on an advisory basis if there was no legislation.

Supervisor Barrett said he believes there will be some modifications to the proposed legislation.

Everyone was given an opportunity to speak in favor of or against the proposed local law and no one else wished to be heard. Supervisor Barrett declared the public hearing closed at 8:45p.m.
